APPENDIX 6 Common multi-word verbs
Before you start

1 Review these intermediate grammar points and check you know them.

Adjectives

1 Adjectives are words which give extra information about nouns. They do not change their form to show number or gender:
   The hero was played by a young boy. Several young girls took the secondary roles.

2 Many adjectives are formed from other words:
   history ➞ historic  beauty ➞ beautiful  depend ➞ dependent  effect ➞ effective

3 We often use the past (-ed) and present (-ing) participles as adjectives to describe feelings or emotions.
   We use the -ing form to describe a feeling that something causes:
   It was a frightening film. (= It frightened us/made us feel afraid.)
   We use the -ed form to describe a feeling that someone experiences:
   I felt frightened when I watched that film. (= I was frightened/experienced fear.)
   Inanimate objects cannot have feelings so we don’t usually use -ed adjectives about feelings to describe them:
   ✗ The report into police behaviour during the demonstration was rather worried.
   ✓ The report was rather worrying. (= The report made readers feel anxious.)

4 We can also combine words to make compound adjectives, e.g. home-made, Spanish-speaking.

Adverbs

1 Adverbs are words which modify or give extra information about verbs, adjectives, other words or whole clauses. Here are some common examples:

   | not formed from other words | here  just  never  quite  soon  still  tomorrow  too  well |
   | fixed phrases | at last  kind of  of course |
   | formed from other words | adjective + -ly (note spelling) easy ➞ easily  excitable ➞ excitably  real ➞ really  tragic ➞ tragically |
   | compounds | some + times ➞ sometimes |

2 The most common use of adverbs is to modify adjectives; the adverb usually comes before the adjective:
   I thought his answers were pretty good on the whole.
   Those cars are terribly expensive.
   Some adverbs, e.g. really, almost, quite, pretty, can modify another adverb:
   The French team did quite well in the first round.
2 Read the article and identify examples of adjectives and adverbs.

The Brink’s-MAT Robbery
The biggest robbery in British history took place on 26 November 1983 when six men broke into the Brink’s-MAT warehouse at Heathrow Airport, London. They stole £3 million in cash and three tonnes of gold bullion, worth around £26 million. The armed robbers poured petrol over the terrified security guards and threatened to set them alight. The British police pursued the gang tirelessly, and in 1984 Brian Robinson and gang leader Michael McAvoy were caught and found guilty of armed robbery, receiving sentences of 25 years in prison. However, the other members of the gang are still at large, and the bulk of the gold has never been found.

12 Adjective patterns

1 Adjectives before nouns (attributive position)
Most adjectives can be used before a noun (attributive position), or after a linking verb, e.g. be, become, etc. (predicative position):

ATTRIBUTIVE
- We’ve just seen an exciting film.

PREDICATIVE
- That film was exciting.

But classifying adjectives (which describe what type of thing something is) and emphasising adjectives are normally only used BEFORE a noun:

✗ The plant they are building here is chemical. ✓ They’re building a chemical plant here.

✗ The chance that they met was mere. ✓ It was mere chance that they met.

ATTRIBUTIVE POSITION

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>classifying (examples)</th>
<th>chemical chief criminal elder entire eventual former industrial local lone main maximum medical national nuclear only outdoor/indoor principal social sole underlying whole</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>emphasising</td>
<td>mere sheer utter</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ACADEMIC ENGLISH
In academic writing we usually prefer adjectives in attributive position, e.g. basic processes, experimental physics, appropriate conditions, principal causes, etc.

2 Adjectives after verbs (predicative position)
Adjectives in predicative position are usually the complement of a linking verb, e.g. be, become, feel, seem (➤ Unit 42.1): When she heard the noise Mary became very uneasy.

However, after certain verbs of thinking and feeling (i.e. consider, find, think) we can omit the linking verb: I consider/find him (to be) very reliable.

Many adjectives beginning with the letter a and adjectives describing health and feelings are not usually used before nouns; instead, we use them in predicative position:

✗ Try not to disturb the asleep children. ✓ Try not to disturb the children; they are asleep.

PREDICATIVE POSITION

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>beginning with a</th>
<th>ablaze afame afloat afoot afraid alike alive alone aloof ashamed askew asleep awake aware</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>health and feelings</td>
<td>content fine glad ill* pleased poorly ready* sorry* sure* upset* (un)well</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* There are some fixed phrases/idioms in which we use normally predicative adjectives before a noun with a special meaning, e.g. a sure grasp, ill health, a ready wit, a sorry state, an upset stomach.

Some predicative adjectives have equivalent words which can be used before a noun:

PREDICATIVE
- alive
- afraid
- alike
- asleep
- ill

ATTRIBUTIVE
- live/living
- frightened
- similar
- sleeping
- sick

They are doing experiments on live animals/animals which are alive.
3 Adjectives after pronouns, nouns, etc.

Adjectives always come AFTER indefinite pronouns, e.g. something, anyone (➤ Unit 5.2):
× I'm looking for cheap something.  ✓ I'm looking for something cheap.

Some adjectives, including many that end in -able and -ible, can follow a noun after a superlative adjective or after the first/last/next/only:
✓ The only seat available is in the back row.  ✓ The only available seat is in the back row.

Adjectives that are followed by a prepositional phrase, e.g. interested in something, suitable for somebody, go after, not before, a noun:
× The project will appeal to interested in ecology students.
✓ The project will appeal to students interested in ecology.

This is similar to a reduced relative clause (➤ Unit 55.5). We can also use a full relative clause with the adjective in predicative position:
The project will appeal to students who are interested in ecology.

Some adjectives have a different meaning when used before or after a noun:
The meeting was full of concerned residents. (= worried)
The students concerned were a small minority. (= who took part/were involved)
I'm afraid we have opposite points of view. (= contrasting)
We used to live in the house opposite. (= physically facing/across from us)
The present director is American. (= current/existing now)
We took a vote of all members present. (= physically there)

Responsible parents have been outraged by this show. (= caring/conscientious)
The person responsible will be caught and punished. (= who did the action)
He gave us a ridiculously involved excuse. (= complicated)
The president gave medals to all those involved. (= who took part)

4 Verbs acting as adjectives

Participle forms of verbs (usually ending in -ed or -ing) can often act as adjectives. Some of these can be used on their own before or after a noun:
Please provide me with a list of the selected candidates/candidates selected.

Some participle forms can only be used AFTER a noun:
× Please dispose of your rubbish in the provided bins.  ✓ ... rubbish in the bins provided.

When we use participles as adjectives, present (-ing) participles have an active meaning and past participles have a passive meaning:
I always seem to play for the losing team. (= the team which is losing)
She found the lost ring under the sofa. (= the ring which had been lost)

Participle forms after a noun can be part of a reduced relative clause:
I feel sorry for the people left behind. (= the people that are left behind)

More on the use of participles in clauses ➤ Unit 55

5 Adjectives acting as nouns

Adjectives can sometimes act as nouns when they describe a particular group or characteristic (➤ Unit 1.5). We usually use the definite article and a plural verb:
Old people are becoming more numerous. = The old are becoming more numerous.

We cannot use the possessive 's with adjectives used as nouns or make them plural:
× The government is looking at the disabled's problems.
✓ The government is looking at the problems of the disabled.
× The Japanese enjoy a high standard of living.
✓ The Japanese (or Japanese people) enjoy a high standard of living.

Many of the (7) involved researchers / researchers involved noted that these airports, which are generally more modern than their equivalents in the West, offered (8) enhanced / enhancing check-in facilities and (9) pleasant somewhere / somewhere pleasant in which to wait for flights.

With regard to the issues which most annoyed people, the lack of children’s facilities and wireless Internet access were two of the (10) concerns which were main / main concerns.

Another was the way in which airports deal with flight delays. The better airports have found ways to cope with this, ranging from television lounges to children’s activity areas. (11) Delayed / Delaying passengers seem to appreciate small details such as comfortable seating and the availability of a wide range of refreshments – anything to relieve the (12) boredom utter / utter boredom of waiting for a delayed flight. (13) Affected passengers / Passengers affected were less likely to complain if their children were (14) amused / amusing and they were able to find inexpensive cafés and restaurants. The airports which came out worse seemed to have (15) aloof staff / staff who were aloof, with little interest in communicating with passengers.

NEWS

More violent crime

Crime is on the rise according to a worried report issued this week by the government’s national statistics office. Concerned citizens are likely to be alarmed by the report’s conclusions. Despite promises that the government was tackling serious crime, the report indicates a 6% rise in serious offences over the last year. The largest increase has been in assaults, especially those involving knives or other weapons. The factor main in these crimes appears to be the growth of gangs in our inner cities, and many of the crimes are drug-related.

Burglaries and theft have also increased, although by a smaller percentage. The publishing figures show a 3% growth since last year. Government sources claim that the underlying reason for this increase is the economic situation. An opposition spokesman said there was nothing surprising in the figures. He pointed at causes which are social and blamed the rise in crime on the present government’s lack of investment in education and training. The chair of the Police Officers’ Association placed responsibility for the situation on the shoulders of the Minister of Justice, the responsible politician for policing. Reductions in police numbers have been a factor which is principal in the growth of crime, he contends.

As usual, it is old and vulnerable who are most likely to be the victims of crime. More than 38% of the victims identified in the report were over the age of 65. It is certainly true that there is a fear of crime amongst the elderly, and lobbying groups are calling for radical something to be done about the problem. They are asking for sentences which are maximum to be given to those criminals that target the elderly or disabled. They feel the involved criminals should be punished more severely than others.
13 Groups of adjectives

In cartoons and movies prisoners are often shown wearing rough grey and white striped uniforms. In fact, these days most prisoners wear blue or grey boiler suits or overalls.

1 Adjective order
We often use more than one adjective to describe a noun. We put opinion adjectives, e.g. fantastic, beautiful, useful, charming before all others:
✗ I’ve bought a new fantastic MP3 player. ✓ I’ve bought a fantastic new MP3 player.

We put the category which is most permanent or important (usually ‘type’ or ‘purpose’) next to the noun; these are often part of the noun, e.g. mobile phone:
✗ We removed the gas heating old system. ✓ We removed the old gas heating system.

More on compound nouns ➤ Unit 70.1

If there are other adjectives, we usually put them in this order:

a large well-preserved eighteenth-century farmhouse

We don’t usually use more than three or four adjectives before a noun. If we want to give more information, we can use additional clauses:

[Elaine’s just bought a beautiful well-preserved eighteenth-century French stone farmhouse.]

Elaine’s just bought a beautiful French stone farmhouse which is well-preserved and dates from the eighteenth century.

2 Paired adjectives
If two adjectives describe different parts of the same thing, we put and between them:
✗ The chrome steel door glinted in the sun.
✓ The chrome and steel door glinted in the sun. (Some parts were chrome, some were steel.)

We always use and between two colours:
✗ They are wearing grey white uniforms. ✓ They are wearing grey and white uniforms.

We can use and between two adjectives which describe similar aspects of something: The protesters are calling for more political and economic freedom.

When two adjectives describe contrasting aspects of the same thing (i.e. it might seem surprising that they go together) we put but, yet or though between them:
The flat was located in a rundown but central part of town.

Group therapy can be a simple yet effective solution to this sort of problem.

3 Using commas or and
When there are several adjectives in predicative position we usually put and before the last one: I’m afraid the hotel was ancient, dirty and overpriced.

With longer lists of adjectives of the same category before a noun we can use commas and put and before the last adjective, or we can simply list the adjectives:
I found him a friendly, knowledgeable and dedicated guide.
I found him a friendly, knowledgeable, dedicated guide.

We don’t use and before the last adjective when the adjectives are of different categories:
✗ We enjoyed sitting in the fantastic soft grey leather seats.
✓ We enjoyed sitting in the fantastic, soft, grey leather seats.

Thief caught by text message

The thief of a (0) priceless Renaissance (Renaissance / priceless) salt cellar has been caught after a three-year hunt. The (1) .................................................. (encrusted enamel / gold) salt cellar, known as the Saliera, is one of the most (2) .................................................. (beautiful / famous) works of the (3) .................................................. (sixteenth-century / Florentine / celebrated) sculptor, Benvenuto Cellini. The salt cellar, which is worth at least 50 million euros, was stolen from the Kunsthistorisches Museum in Vienna. The theft was (4) .................................................. (simple / daring).

In the middle of the night the thief climbed up some scaffolding, walked through an empty gallery and smashed the (5) .................................................. (glass / heavy) display case containing the salt cellar. The alarm went off but the security guards assumed it was faulty and ignored it. It wasn’t until four hours later that the cleaners noticed the (6) .................................................. (shattered / glass) display case and raised the alarm. Some time later the police received a ransom demand of 10 million euros for the return of the (7) .................................................. (priceless / missing) sculpture. In a modern twist on a very traditional crime the thief sent his demand by text message. It was a (8) .................................................. (stupid / fatal) mistake. The police were able to trace the mobile phone which sent the text message and the shop which had sold that particular phone. By an (9) .................................................. (amazing / fortuitous) coincidence the shop had a surveillance camera and still had the tapes from the day on which the phone had been sold. The (10) .................................................. (grainy / distinct) pictures of the man who had bought the phone were broadcast on TV and within days several people had phoned in with a positive identification. The suspect gave himself up to the police and led them to a forest north of Vienna. There they found the (11) .................................................. (complete / undamaged) sculpture hidden in a (12) .................................................. (wooden / small) box.

14 Comparative and superlative adjectives

1 Form and use
We use comparative adjectives to compare two (or more) things or people, and superlative adjectives to distinguish one thing or person from a number of others.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMPARATIVE ADJECTIVES</th>
<th>SUPERLATIVE ADJECTIVES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>one syllable* large</td>
<td>adjective + -er (+ than): Los Angeles is larger (than San Francisco).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>two or more syllables* expensive</td>
<td>more + adjective (+ than): Gold is more valuable (than silver).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>irregular adjectives good/bad, far, old</td>
<td>better/worse, further/farther, older/elder</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* For exceptions ➤ 14.3 below

Spelling rules for these forms ➤ page 367
We use than to introduce a noun or a clause after a comparative adjective:
Los Angeles is larger than San Francisco. Los Angeles is larger than I expected it to be.
We can use other phrases between a comparative adjective and a than clause:
The prisoners were more violent in this prison than in the others we visited.
If the object of the comparison is a pronoun without a verb we usually use an object pronoun (➤ Unit 4.1). If there is a verb we use a subject pronoun:
[I'm taller than he.] ✓ I'm taller than him. ✓ I'm taller than he is.
When we have two or more adjectives with more in a list, we usually only use more once:
[Lester and Graves were more hardworking and more determined than the others.]
✓ Lester and Graves were more hardworking and determined than the others.
After superlatives we use in before singular nouns (i.e. the name of a place or group), but we use of before plural nouns:
✗ The Twin Towers Correctional Facility is the largest prison of the world.
✓ The Twin Towers Correctional Facility is the largest prison in the world.
Mallorca is the largest of the Balearic islands.
In formal English we can add an of phrase at the beginning of the sentence:
Of the candidates interviewed, David Slater was the most suitable for the post.

2 less and least
We use less and least as the opposite of more and most. We use these words with all adjectives including one-syllable adjectives:
I prefer the paisley pattern; it's less bold than the others.
The tuna salad is the least expensive dish on the menu.

[FORMALITY CHECK] In informal English we usually prefer to use not as ... as:
I prefer the paisley pattern; it isn't as bold as the others.
more/most/less/least with nouns ➤ Unit 57.2

3 Special rules
One-syllable adjectives ending in -ed and the adjectives real, right and wrong form the comparative and superlative with more and most (we do not add -er or -est):
✗ I was boreder than I was on the flight to Sydney.
✓ I was more bored than I was on the flight to Sydney.
Many two-syllable adjectives ending in -ly, -y, -ow, -r and -l, and the adjectives common, handsome, mature, pleasant, polite, simple and stupid can have either more/most or -er/-est:
The photographer wanted something more lively (or livelier).
The staff couldn't have been more friendly (or friendlier).
Are people in the country more polite (or politer) than those in the city?
When we add a negative prefix to two-syllable adjectives ending in -y (e.g. happy – unhappy) they can also take more/most or -er and -est:
She was the unlikeliest candidate to succeed. He's the most unhappy man I've ever met.
We sometimes omit the before superlatives describing titles, award, prizes, etc:
This year's prize for most promising newcomer goes to Lizzie Gordon.

FORMALITY CHECK  In informal spoken English we sometimes use a superlative adjective when we are only comparing two things, especially if the two things make a set:
I've got two cars but the Mercedes is the best.

4 Irregular adjectives
We can use elder and eldest (instead of older and oldest) to talk about people's ages, especially people in the same family, but we can't use elder immediately after a verb:
Their eldest/oldest son went to Harvard. Mary is the eldest/the oldest.
✗ My sister is elder (than me).
Note that we don’t use elder and eldest to talk about the age of things:
✗ This is the eldest house in the street.
We use further or farther to talk about a ‘greater distance’:
John's house is the farther one.
I’ve moved further away from my parents. (= a greater distance away)
We use further (not farther) with the meaning of ‘extra’ or ‘more’:
Let me know if you have any further questions. (= extra/more)

5 Intensifying and weakening; emphasis
Comparatives and superlatives can be made stronger or weaker by adding the following:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMPARATIVES</th>
<th>stronger</th>
<th>weaker</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>even (very) much far a lot lots (informal) considerably significantly substantially a great deal</td>
<td>His new film's even more exciting than the last one. The issue of accountability became substantially more important in the weeks before the election.</td>
<td>a little slightly a bit (informal) somewhat (formal)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

We don’t use a little/a bit when a noun follows the comparative adjective:
✗ It's a little higher price than I expected. ✓ The price is a little higher than I expected.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SUPERLATIVES</th>
<th>stronger</th>
<th>weaker</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>by far easily (informal)</td>
<td>The Twin Towers Correctional Facility is by far the largest prison in the world. (much larger than all the others)</td>
<td>one of some of among</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FORMALITY CHECK  Most one-syllable adjectives can also form the comparative and superlative with more or most instead of -er or -est. We usually use these forms for emphasis in spoken English:
You should be more proud of the things you've already achieved. (= prouder)
I think this is the award she is the most proud of. (= proudest)
Practice

1. Complete the sentences, using suitable comparative and superlative forms of the adjectives in the box. Add than or the if necessary, as in the example.

   Listen and check.

   bad  bored  dry  far  good  keen  loose  pretty  real  scared  tidy  wet  wrong

   0. Since we’ve had a cleaner, the house has become a lot tidier than it used to be!
   1. And now we come to the award for ...................... actor in a leading role.
   2. It’s been raining non-stop. I think this will be ...................... July on record!
   3. The authenticity of dialogue and setting often makes low-budget films seem ...................... the somewhat artificial version of reality in Hollywood movies.
   4. In medieval times people rarely travelled far. For most peasants, ...................... destination would be the local market town.
   5. This skirt’s much too tight on the hips. I need something with a ...................... fit.
   6. The pianist was awful! I think that’s ...................... performance I’ve ever heard.
   7. I don’t mind the Mediterranean summer because it’s a ...................... heat than you find in the tropics.

   11. ...................... I’ve ever been was when Joe and I were flying over the Himalayas and we hit a storm; it was absolutely petrifying.
   12. That play was so tedious. I was ...................... watching that than I was when I spent three hours trapped in that lift last year!

2. Grammar in use Find and correct ten more mistakes. Listen and check.

   Karen Now we’ve seen all the candidates, what do you think?

   Toby It’s a difficult choice, but I thought Steven was the most ambitious of the three.

   Karen Oh? You couldn’t be more wrong! Meera definitely has betterer experience.

   Toby Well of course she does, she’s elder than the other two.

   Karen Yes, and she’s maturer.

   Toby True. But don’t you think she’s a bit set in her ways? Would she really fit in here?

   Karen I don’t see why not. Let’s face it, the other two are very young – significantly more younger than most of our staff.

   Toby That could be a good thing. I mean younger people are adaptabler than older ones.

   Karen OK. What about Ahmed? He was the best qualified in the candidates.

   Toby I’m not sure. He seemed the less promising of the three. He was too laid back.

   Karen Yes, he was the easily most relaxed – people are usually more nervouer at interviews.

   Toby So we come back to Steven. He was one the most ambitious candidates I’ve ever interviewed. I thought that was a positive thing …

   Karen Yes. But he’s very distant. Aren’t we looking for someone more friendlier and approachable? Let’s look at their CVs again.
3 Complete the second sentence so it has a similar meaning to the first. Use three to six words in your answer, including the word in brackets, as in the example.

0 All the other members of the family are younger than Uncle Jacob. (the)
   Uncle Jacob ............................................................... the oldest member of the family.
1 I live closer to the bus stop than Ivan does. (away)
   Ivan lives ........................................................................ than me.
2 These apples aren’t as tasty as the ones Lizzie bought. (than)
   The apples Lizzie bought .............................................
3 The massacre was among the most despicable episodes in the regiment’s history. (one)
   The massacre was ..................................................... in the regiment’s history.
4 The ending of the film wasn’t as sentimental as I’d expected. (than)
   I’d expected the ending of the film to be ............................................ it was.
5 Mikhail’s essay wasn’t as bad as the others. (the)
   Mikhail’s essay .................................................................
6 All the other flights were more expensive than the Easyjet one. (of)
   The Easyjet flight ......................................................... the flights.

15 Other comparative patterns

Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow are the most famous bank robbers in American history. In the early 1930s they carried out a string of robberies in the American mid-West. Although they looked like an innocent young couple, they were ruthless criminals. As they travelled, they became more and more daring, killing at least nine police officers. They were eventually shot dead by police in 1934. Their story was made into a film in 1967.

1 (not) as ... as
We can say that two things are equal by using as + adjective + as:
The Spanish omelette is as expensive as the chicken salad. They both cost €7.99.
We make this comparison more emphatic with just:
In the American legal system, juries are just as important as in the UK.
To say that things are almost equal we use just about, about, almost, more or less or nearly + as:
Let’s not eat here. This café’s just about as bad as the last one.
My niece is nearly as old as me!
We make a negative comparison with not as / so + adjective + as:
Warsaw isn’t as large as London. (= London is larger.)
We can modify this type of comparison with nearly or quite:
Motor bikes aren’t nearly so expensive as cars. (= Motor bikes are much cheaper.)
My mobile phone isn’t quite as good as Sunil’s. (= Sunil’s phone is slightly better.)

FORMALITY CHECK In informal spoken English we can use not anything like, nothing like or nowhere near + as + adjective:
That dress isn’t anything like as nice as the red one.
This outfit’s nothing like / nowhere near as fashionable as the one in the magazine.
similar to, different than / from / to ➤ pages 370–1

2 no/not any + comparative adjective
We can use comparative adjectives to say that two things are equal.
We use is + no + comparative adjective or is not + any + comparative adjective:
That Nokia phone is no more expensive than / no dearer than the Samsung.
(= They are the same price.)
The Nokia isn’t any cheaper than / isn’t any less expensive than the Samsung.
(= They are the same price.)

3 Progressive comparison
We can describe how something increases or decreases in intensity by repeating more or the same comparative adjective, with and between the forms:
As they travelled, Bonnie and Clyde became more and more daring.
Her visits to the country to see her son became rarer and rarer.
4 Combined comparison
To describe how a change in one thing causes a change in another, we can use two comparative forms with the. Note the use of the comma after the first clause:
The longer you leave it, the worse it’ll get.
We sometimes omit the verb be in the clauses:
The more sophisticated the product, the more substantial the potential profit.

5 Contrastive comparison
When we contrast two related qualities, we always use more (not -er):
✗ I'm sadder than disappointed.  ✓ I'm more sad than disappointed.
✓ Her eyes are more green than grey.
We can also use not so much … as or rather than:
I'm not so much disappointed as sad.  Her eyes are green rather than grey.

6 like and as; similes and metaphors
We often describe something by comparing it to something else which has similar qualities. These comparisons are known as ‘similes’. There are two forms:

• as + adjective + as: Listening to her was as interesting as watching paint dry.
  (In informal English we sometimes omit the first as: She looks white as a sheet.)

• like + noun or verb phrase: The cruise ship was like a skyscraper lying on its side.

There are many idioms in which we use these two patterns:
You're as white as a sheet; I think you'd better see a doctor.
I feel full of energy today – I slept like a log last night.

We use like (not as) before a noun to compare two things which SEEM similar:
✗ Although they looked as an innocent young couple, they were ruthless criminals.
✓ Although they looked like an innocent young couple, they were ruthless criminals.
  (They appeared to be innocent, but they weren’t.)

When Mike puts on his dark suit he looks like a waiter. (= He resembles a waiter.)
Sometimes my boss acts like a dictator. (= He behaves in a similar way to a dictator.)
This fabric is so soft it feels like silk. (= similar to silk)

We use as (not like) before a noun when we are describing someone’s actual job, role or identity, or something’s function:
✗ Simon’s working like a waiter during the summer vacation.
✓ Simon’s working as a waiter during the summer vacation. (This is his job.)

Use your payroll number as a password for the computer. (This is its function.)
Jude Law appeared as Hamlet in a recent production of the play. (This was his role.)
The SAT tests are used as an entry test by many American universities. (This is their function.)

We can also describe something by comparing it with something similar without using like or as; this is known as a ‘metaphor’:
The new treaty will form a bridge between our two nations. (a bridge = metaphor for ‘a link’)

Metaphors are common in poetry and literary English:
I fall upon the thorns of life! I bleed! (thorns of life = bad experiences)

7 as and such
We can use as and not such to introduce a comparison with nouns. There are two patterns:

• as + adjective + a + noun + as:
  It wasn’t as bad a result as I’d expected. (= better than expected)

• not such a + adjective + noun + as:
  It wasn’t such a bad result as I’d expected.
so dark/such a dark night that …not light enough to, etc. ➤ Unit 59.4

Teenage girls cause mayhem in California street races

FOR YEARS illegal street races have been the scourge of Los Angeles. Weaving through the busy city streets in souped-up cars, amateur drivers race to win prizes of up to $3,000. Crashes and fatalities are commonplace and the police seem unable to stop the menace because (1) ................... faster they chase the criminals, the (2) ................... they drive, causing even more damage. The drivers call these races ‘cutting up’ contests and their aim is to drive (3) ................... fast as possible through crowded streets, overtaking and ‘cutting up’ ordinary drivers. The criminals use special cars – they look (4) ................... ordinary family cars to the naked eye, but in fact they have been fitted with fuel boosters. Although (5) ................... nearly as powerful (6) ................... professional racing cars, these vehicles can still reach high speeds and be extremely dangerous.

Ten years ago about ten people a year were killed in street races in the Los Angeles area. Now the figure is more than a hundred. As street races have grown more and (7) ................... dangerous, the police have been forced to take stronger action. The crackdown has resulted in a surprising discovery – most of the racers are teenage girls rather than teenage boys, and some are as young (8) ................... sixteen. But to many members of the public this isn’t (9) ................... a surprising revelation. Especially as many of these girls seem to be from the Asian community, perhaps modelling themselves on Nadine Toyoda, a Scottish-Japanese former street racer who has changed her ways and now works (10) ................... a legitimate racing driver.

Psychologists have blamed the crime wave on the influence of computer games, many of which feature street races. Teenagers want to be (11) ................... the drivers in these games. But driving in a game is fictional (12) ................... than real. When you crash a car in a computer game you simply start again. In real life the consequences are rather more serious.

16 Gradable and ungradable adjectives

The most famous art forger of the twentieth century was the Dutch artist Han Van Meegeren. He created several works which he passed off as priceless masterpieces by Vermeer. He was exposed in 1947 and his paintings were revealed as fakes and therefore absolutely worthless.

1 Gradable and ungradable adjectives

Gradable adjectives represent a point on a scale. For example, cheap and expensive are adjectives on the scale of 'how much something costs'.

Ungradable adjectives represent the limits of a scale. For example, free (= it costs nothing) and priceless (= its cost is too great to be counted) are the limits on the scale of 'how much something costs'.

Most English adjectives are gradable. We can make comparative and superlative forms from all gradable adjectives (➤ Unit 14). We don’t usually make comparisons with ungradable adjectives, although there are some patterns we use in spoken English:

That was the most delicious meal! Her house is even more enormous than his!

Some adjectives can have both gradable and ungradable meanings, depending on whether the speaker is describing an absolute quality or one which is relative to something else:

I’m afraid there are no rooms – the hotel is full. (ungradable = completely full)

The hotel’s very full but I think I can get you a single room for tonight. (gradable = has many guests but there is still some space)

Other adjectives like this are: empty, beautiful, black, delicious, new, possible.

2 Intensifying gradable adjectives

We can make gradable adjectives stronger with very, but not with the adverb absolutely:

✗ That new jacket looks absolutely expensive. ✓ That new jacket looks very expensive.

There are other words we use to strengthen the meaning of these adjectives:

extremely most (formal) pretty (informal) rather really so terribly

Last night’s match was terribly exciting. I felt pretty upset after the accident. (informal)
The chapter on the early sonnets was most instructive. (formal)

We usually use rather with negative adjectives or when describing something unexpected:

There was a rather unpleasant smell in the flat. Surprisingly, the film was rather good.

More examples in spoken English ➤ Unit 81.1
We often use less common adverbs to intensify certain gradable adjectives:
I was bitterly disappointed at my exam results. My brother is painfully shy.
The students in this school are highly intelligent.
But note that we can often only use certain adverbs with certain adjectives.

Common adverb + adjective collocations ➤ page 369

3 Weakening gradable adjectives

Gradable adjectives can usually be made weaker by the words fairly, slightly, a (little) bit (informal) and somewhat (formal):
I’ve been feeling slightly dizzy all morning.
My friend was a bit upset. (informal)
The police reported that the man was somewhat aggressive. (formal)
We can use not very and not at all to weaken gradable adjectives after the verb be:
The end of term test wasn’t very long and it wasn’t at all difficult.

With gradable adjectives quite usually means ‘fairly’ but can have other meanings, depending on stress and intonation:
The lecture was quite interesting. (unmarked: fairly interesting)
The lecture was quite interesting. (stressed adjective: more interesting than the speaker expected)
The lecture was quite interesting. (stressed adverb: less interesting than the speaker expected)

Pronunciation ➤ 1.04

4 Intensifying ungradable adjectives

A common way to intensify the meaning of ungradable adjectives is with the adverb absolutely. We often use this device to add emphasis in informal English:
I couldn’t swim in the sea; the water was absolutely freezing.
The show was absolutely fabulous.

We do not usually use very with ungradable adjectives:

- ✗ Entrance to the museum is very free.
- ✓ Entrance to the museum is absolutely free.

When we use quite with ungradable adjectives, it has a similar meaning to ‘completely’, emphasising the strength of the adjective. In speech the stress is usually on quite:
The tenor’s performance was quite amazing. You’re quite correct.

We can also use a most before an ungradable adjective + noun:
Hilary has a most amazing hairstyle. (= Her hairstyle is completely amazing.)

Although we use absolutely with many ungradable adjectives, there are some adjectives where we prefer to use other intensifying adverbs such as completely, totally and utterly.
There are no grammar rules which explain these combinations so it is best to learn them as vocabulary items (➤ page 369).
I’m afraid your answer is completely wrong.
Since the accident Henry has been totally deaf in one ear.
Susan was utterly appalled by her husband’s dishonesty.

5 Weakening ungradable adjectives (almost, nearly, etc.)

We use almost, nearly, practically or virtually to indicate a point close to the absolute meaning of ungradable adjectives:
He never turns the heating on – it’s practically freezing in there.
The battery in my calculator is almost dead.
After six months with the disease he was nearly deaf and virtually blind.

We do not usually use the modifiers fairly, slightly, a (little) bit, somewhat or not very with ungradable adjectives:

- ✗ Their favourite possession is a slightly priceless Satsuma vase.
- ✗ I wouldn’t recommend the show; it’s not very fabulous.

Fakes found in major museums

OSCAR WHITE MUSCARELLA, a [0] respected archeologist at New York’s Metropolitan Museum, claims that more than 1,250 forgeries are on display in the world's leading museums and art galleries. In his latest book Muscarella specifically names 37 forgeries in the Louvre, 16 in the British Museum and 45 in his own museum in New York. Muscarella’s earlier claims have been heavily [1] by some museum officials who are [2] opposed to his arguments. But he has [3] good scientific evidence for his claims, showing that over 40 percent of the objects examined by the Oxford thermoluminescence laboratory are fakes.

The reason for the quantity of forgeries is [4] simple. Because many of the objects in our museums were found by amateurs and illegally exported from their countries of origin they have no official provenance or documented history. Museums are painfully [5] of this embarrassing problem and as a result they have been known to overlook the lack of written records before accepting or buying antiquities.

This practice makes it [6] impossible to detect forgeries, especially if they are accurate copies. But in fact many forgeries are [7] obvious as they are often copied from a photograph which only shows the front of an object. When examining the back of the forgery they can look [8] different from the original. But museum officials tend to be [9] conservative and hate to question objects which have been sitting in their collections for many years.

Muscarella specialises in the ancient Middle East, and this is the area of archaeology in which he has found so many forgeries. But his research has had the effect of undermining the reputation of some of our most [10] regarded institutions, and this should be of concern to anyone who values our cultural heritage.

17 Adverb form and use

1 Confusing forms
Some adverbs have the same form as adjectives:
close, dead (informal), fast, fine, long, low, pretty (informal), short, straight, wide, wrong
Some adverbs are formed by adding -ward/s or -wise to a noun or preposition:
home ➔ homeward  after ➔ afterwards  price ➔ pricewise  health ➔ healthwise

| We got into the concert free!  Sheep roam freely over the hills. |
| We travelled deep into the jungle.  I'm deeply ashamed of my behaviour. |

There are a few adjectives which look like adverbs, e.g. friendly, lonely, cowardly.
We cannot make these adjectives into adverbs in the usual way:
✗ He left cowardly, sneaking out the back door.  ✓ He left in a cowardly way/manner ...

Adjectives as adverbs in spoken English ➤ Unit 81.2  American English ➤ page 368

2 Adding information; modifying
We use adverbs to add information about the time, manner or place of an action or state:

He hit the ball hard and this time it flew into the back of the net.

Certain adverbs, e.g. quite (a), roughly, rather (a), about, approximately, can be used to modify noun phrases, prepositional phrases and numbers: Her news came as quite a shock.
In our college roughly fifty students have motorbikes. She made rather a fuss about the results.

More on rather and quite ➤ Unit 16.2/4

We can use adverbs with as, so, too, enough, etc:
She performed so enthusiastically that the judges overlooked her inexperience.
We missed the bargains because we didn't get to the shops soon enough.

3 Using adverbs in comparisons
We can use adverbs in comparatives and superlatives, usually with more and most:
This car seems to need servicing more frequently than our old one.
Of all the relatives at Gran's funeral, I think Uncle Ralph felt her loss most deeply.
Adverbs which do not end in -ly take the same comparative and superlative forms as adjectives (➤ Unit 14):
If you tuned the engine more often the car would go faster.  Do the best you can.
A female prisoner does the gardening, East Sutton Open Prison

Prison or holiday camp?

IN A RECENT (1) high / highly contentious move the Prison Service has announced a decision to build three more open prisons and to close two existing ‘closed’ prisons. The Service says the move is prompted by the increasing numbers of low-risk prisoners. Critics are (2) right / rightly concerned about this move and believe it is (3) serious / seriously flawed. They argue the decision is a cynical cost-cutting measure which may put the public at risk.

At present open prisons are restricted to prisoners who have committed non-violent crimes and to those who are getting (4) close / closely to the end of their prison term. (5) Rough / Roughly 20% of prisoners are held in these facilities at the current time. Many open prisons are more like country hotels; prisoners can wander (6) free / freely around the grounds and there are no high walls or barbed wire fences. Inmates can (7) easy / easily walk out into the surrounding areas. And as most are positioned (8) deep / deeply in the countryside it would be (9) easy / easily for absconding offenders to disappear with little hope of recapture.

Critics of open prisons say that they do not provide the deterrent effect of traditional prisons in which prisoners have to work (10) hard / hardly and have few luxuries. The problem for the prison authorities is that traditional jails are (11) high / highly expensive to run and offer few opportunities for the rehabilitation and re-education of offenders. In open prisons offenders have the chance to experience something closer to everyday life, and this helps to prepare them for their eventual release. Whoever is (12) right / rightly, the public is bound to be concerned about this new development in prison policy.

18 Adverb position

The thief entered the room silently and carefully opened the safe door.

1 The three positions

Adverbs which modify a verb or add information about how, when or where something happens can take several positions in a sentence:

- Front position (before subject): The thief entered the room silently and carefully opened the safe door.
- End position (after object or complement): These days I probably take my health much more seriously.
- Mid position (next to verb): These days I take much more seriously all those things I used to take for granted.

If the object or complement of a verb is very long, we can put an end-position adverb before it:

These days I take much more seriously all those things I used to take for granted.

2 Front position

We usually put time and place adverbs at the end of the sentence, e.g. I worked more than twelve hours yesterday, but we can put them at the front to form a link or contrast with information in the previous sentence:

*I've been incredibly busy this week. Yesterday I worked more than twelve hours.*

After negative adverbs (e.g. never), or after adverbs of time and place followed by a verb of movement or position, we can put the verb before the subject. We usually only do this in formal written English:

Never had he seen such a disturbing sight. Here lies the body of our late sovereign.

Inversion ➤ Unit 76.2/3

⚠️ We do not use adverbs of definite frequency, e.g. daily, weekly, in front position:

✗ Monthly I get paid. ✓ I get paid monthly.

3 Mid position

This is the usual position for the following adverbs, and for even and only.

| Adverbs of Indefinite Frequency | Always Frequently Generally | Hardly ever Never Normally Occasionally Often Rarely Seldom Sometimes Usually |
|---------------------------------|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|---------------------------------|---------------------------------|---------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| Adverbs of Degree               | Absolutely                   | Almost                       | Completely                      | Entirely                         | Just                           | Hardly                           | Partly                          | Quite                           | Really                          | Slightly                        | Totally                         |
| Adverbs of Certainty            | Certainly                    | Definitely                   | Probably                         |                                |                                |                                 |                                |                                |                                |                                |                                |
| Most Short Adverbs of Time      | Already                      | Finally                      | Immediately                     | No longer                       | Soon                           | Still                            | Then                            | (But not today, yesterday, tomorrow, etc.) |

⚠️ With the present and past simple we put the adverb between the subject and the verb, but with simple forms of be the adverb goes after the verb:

✗ She arrives always by taxi and she always is on time.

✓ She always arrives by taxi and she is always on time.

If there is a modal or auxiliary verb we put the adverb after the (first) auxiliary (+ not):

We've never been to the Greek Islands. You can just see the coast.

Sea eagles have occasionally been seen around Loch Lomond.

They don't really understand my point of view.

⚠️ We put sometimes, still, certainly, definitely and probably BEFORE a negative auxiliary:

✗ I don't sometimes understand his arguments. He hasn't still convinced me.

✓ I sometimes don't understand his arguments. He still hasn't convinced me.
FORMALITY CHECK In spoken British English, if we want to emphasise an auxiliary verb or a simple form of be, we can put some mid-position adverbs before it. The auxiliary/verb is usually stressed:

‘But I thought you liked him!’ ‘Oh, you really don’t understand me at all!’
‘Joe’s late. That’s strange’ ‘Not really, he never is on time!’

Compare:
I don’t really like him. (unmarked: I slightly dislike him.)
I really don’t like him. (emphatic: I strongly dislike him.)

We do not use other time adverbs (definite time or frequency) in mid position:
X We yesterday bought our lunch at Joe’s sandwich bar. X I once a month pay my rent.

But we can do this in news reports:
The Federal Reserve today announced an immediate rise in interest rates.

4 End position

This is the most frequent position for adverbs. It is the usual position for yet, a lot, any more, any longer, too, as well:
X They aren’t any more selling it. ✓ They aren’t selling it any more.

We usually put adverbs of manner (which describe how something is done) and adverbs of definite frequency in this position:
X He well plays the guitar. ✓ He plays the guitar well. ✓ The magazine is published monthly.

Adverbs of manner which end in -ly (except badly) can go in end or mid position:
Harry painstakingly counted out the coins and arranged them neatly into piles.
The thief entered the room silently and carefully opened the safe door.

We don’t use hardly ever or never in end position:
X They watch television hardly ever. ✓ They hardly ever watch television.

If we put often, rarely and seldom in end position, we use a modifier, e.g. very, extremely:
X These days I eat desserts rarely. ✓ These days I eat desserts very rarely.

We usually avoid having too many adverbs in end position, but when this occurs we often follow this sequence:
The statue was lifted carefully onto the platform before the ceremony.

1 manner 2 place 3 time

5 Sentence adverbs

Sentence adverbs refer to the whole sentence, not just part of it. We usually put these adverbs at the beginning of a sentence, separated by a comma:
Economically, the current government has been a resounding success.
(= The government has successfully managed the economy.)
Generally, the employer pays for travel expenses. (= This is true in most cases.)

Comment adverbs are sentence adverbs such as admittedly, frankly, indeed, understandably, which we use to express our attitude towards the information in a statement:
Admittedly, these results are only preliminary. (= This may contradict previous information.)

Subject: Robbed in Barcelona!

Hi Susanna,

We’ve been having an absolutely (1) * time here in Barcelona – well, until last night that is! We’ve been staying in a (2) * hotel in the Gothic quarter. (3) * for a delicious meal and walked back to the hotel at about midnight. It was (4) * dark and suddenly three young guys surrounded us and demanded our wallets. I’ve never been so (5) *. They had a knife so we didn’t resist. And there was (6) * so we couldn’t even call for help. (7) * had a few euros in our pockets, no credit cards or anything. (8) * that. They just took the money and ran away, they didn’t hurt us. So it wasn’t as (9) * as it might have been. I’m (10) * going to let it spoil my trip!

Anyway, everything else has been (11) * fantastic. The weather has been wonderfully hot and sunny and we’ve seen most of the (12) *. On Tuesday we went to the ‘Sagrada Familia’ – (13) * the most interesting building here – although Steve felt it wasn’t (14) * beautiful as some of Gaudi’s other buildings. (15) * we went to the Maritime Museum. Steve finds anything to do with boats utterly (16) * but I find that kind of thing about as interesting (17) * watching paint dry! We’ve also (18) * here. We managed to find some local restaurants where the food is (19) ****.

Anyway, I hope things are OK at the office and you’re not working too (20) * – although I can’t say I’m very (21) * at the thought of getting back (22) ****!

Jackie
